Claim to Source Map

Report Claim	Primary Source(s)	Confidence Boundary
ARC SE has continuity and source-discipline assets.	Founder Story; Evolution; Master Book; source maps	Strong for package continuity; does not prove commercial adoption.
ARC SE has archaeology and resurrection evidence.	May15 Resurrection; Hall of Legends; Appendix A	Strong for documented continuity; not equivalent to audited live performance.
ARC SE has replay/parity DNA.	RapidQuant; May15; Evolution; Appendix A	Strong as method evidence; third-party reproduction still needed.
ARC SE intersects observability markets.	Datadog, Splunk, Dynatrace, New Relic, Elastic, Grafana, AppDynamics sources	Category evidence only; no valuation transfer.
ARC SE intersects decision/process/knowledge systems.	Palantir, Celonis, Bloomberg, UiPath, Alteryx sources	Conceptual overlap only; ARC SE lacks comparable customers and platform maturity.
ARC SE intersects quant/research infrastructure.	QuantConnect, NinjaTrader, TradeStation, RapidQuant source	Workflow overlap; not brokerage or public quant cloud equivalence.
Current valuation must be asset-weighted.	RapidQuant; May15; Appendix A; Evolution; Ecosystem; source maps; this report's doctrine correction	Current ranges derive primarily from existing assets, accumulated evidence, continuity, replacement difficulty, and documented capabilities.
Future commercialization is separate.	This report's Value Separation table	Customers, ARR, SaaS, pilots, institutional adoption, and compliance are not primary current-valuation drivers.

Source discipline conclusion

Every external value in the report is marked by source, date checked, and valuation type. If a value is private, approximate, historical, or source-dependent, the report says so. No peer value is used to set ARC SE's value.
